TOYS AS EDUCATORS.

In his training for life the American boy of today has one distinct advantage which his father lacked. The mechanical toys of the time cannot come into a boy's possession without giving him a certain acquisition of mechanical skill which may be of value to him in his future career. The present development in electricity has been made by men who knew practically nothing of electrical appliances in boyhood. With the multiplication of electrical toys the work of the next generation will be taken up by men to whom many of the devices of today have been familiar since early youth. The 20th century boy is in a fair way to know more about the possibilities of electricity than the professor of natural philosophy understood 50 years ago.

The principles on which the modern toys operate are practically the same as those used in complicated machinery. The toy electric railway is now equipped down to the slightest detail. The power may be supplied from a battery or from a generator driving a small turbine connected with a running water faucet. Steel rails are laid about the room from which the motor in the toy engine receives its supply of power. There are passengers and freight cars, signal tower and side tracks from which the boy may learn about the operation of railroads. He is taught the use of the positive and negative currents, how to connect electric light, how to manage a dynamo. In fact, if he knew how much he was learning he would probably rebel at the thought.

There are other devices besides toy railroads to instill knowledge into youthful minds under the guise of play. Battleships and torpedo boats supplied with a wet cell battery for motive power will cut through the waves of an ordinary pond with decks afloat. Then there are automobiles operated by electricity and manifold games of similar sort. The steam engine has been in the toy department for years. Its principles have become familiar to children who have played with it in their homes. The possession of such a toy is a stimulus to the boy's inventive capacity. He is constantly tempted to build something for the engine to run.

No intelligent young American owns a machine that "goes" without trying to find out the principles on which it is built. His curiosity is stimulated and must be satisfied. Here is where his elders may find their opportunity. They may not care to bother with his questions, in which case they may be able to stifle his curiosity with evasive answers, or they may encourage an intelligent study of the principles involved. There are plenty of good books on mechanics and electricity which boys can understand with a little explanation. These may be referred to in connection with the toys. Then, when the boy has become somewhat familiar with the habits of electricity, he may be encouraged to make various simple devices such as are described in any elementary book on the subject. In this way Christmas toys may prove a valuable factor in educating the rising generation in the field in which the 20th century is expected to show marvelous development.—Kansas City Star

Why a Woman

Is Able to Help Sick Women
When Doctors Fail.

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances. These things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

To treat a case properly it is necessary to know all about it, and full information, many times, cannot be given by a woman to her family physician. She cannot bring herself to tell everything, and the physician is at a constant disadvantage. This is why, for the past twenty-five years, thousands of women have been confiding their troubles to us, and our advice has brought happiness and health to countless women in the U. S. Mrs. Chappell, of Grant Park, Ill., whose portrait we publish, advises all suffering women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it cured her of inflammation of the ovaries and womb; she, therefore, speaks from knowledge, and her experience ought to give others confidence. Address Mrs. Pinkham's Laboratory, Lynn, Mass.

THE EDITOR AS DESTINY.

The pecuniary difficulties in which aspirant literary fame become involved have inspired many an anecdote.

"Here's a poem on the Emerald Isle, sorr," said a frazzled looking individual to the editor of a weekly newspaper in a large town, "an it's hoping you'll take it, Oi am."

"What's your address?" inquired the editor.

"That depends entirely on you, sorr."

"Depends on me?" echoed the editor; "what do you mean?"

"If you take the poem, sorr, me addressee will still be stentiv-wan King strath," replied the sanguine poet; "but if you don't take it, it's meself that will be left without any address to me name, fur me landlady kapes her wurd, sorr!"—London Spare Moments.

GARTER FACTS AND SUPERSTITIONS.

A young girl, blushing faintly, remarked at a theatrical performance the other night about the garter of a pale blue silk that a dancer wore below her knee.

"It is bad luck," she said, "to wear one's garters in that way. It is also untidy, but principally it is bad luck, and I for my part would not do it. It is also bad luck to wear white garters—they signify death—and yellow ones signify jealousy and love troubles. Garters tied in a true lover's knot are the most fortunate ones, and if they are jeweled that makes them still more fortunate. Suspender garters have no bad luck attached to them, but they are not very pretty. After the true lover's knot the black garter, fastened with a gold buckle, is the luckiest. My own garters always match my stockings, but you could never induce me to wear stockings of white or yellow."—Philadelphia Record.

Cricket Club Meeting.

Monday night the annual social meeting of the Methuen cricket club was held in Nowell's block on Broadway, and was probably the most successful affair of its kind ever held by the club. A large number of the members of the club were in attendance as were also a number of its patrons and friends. In the early part of the evening a supper was served, consisting of an oyster stew, cold meats, etc., and following this, cigars furnished by Representative Desmond of Lawrence and Candidate A. L. Dame of Methuen, were passed around and smoking began. Soon the gathering was sufficiently quieted by the influence of the smoke to be prepared for the evening's entertainment. Selectman Edward A. Bower, who is also honorary president of the club, presided and in a neat speech welcomed the members and friends to the festivities. The entertainment began with a selection by a quartet composed of Joseph Booth, James Tetley, James Tetley and George A. Smith, which afforded great satisfaction, and the audience demanded another. Chairman George O. Marsh of the board of selectmen was then called upon, and made a few remarks.

The secretary, J. C. Teale, then gave the annual report. He said in this report that the club had now passed its experimental stage, and as it entered upon its fifth year of existence, it was an assured success. During the past year the membership had been increased by 52, making the total membership now 120. He thanked the following for the support and aid given the club by them: W. S. Knox, Guy W. Currier, Butler Ames, A. N. Frost, J. E. Buswell, Representative Desmond, Karl M. Ebert, Scott Peters, George G. Frederick, Alfred Sagar, E. A. Bower, L. E. Barnes, Otto Mueller, A. L. Dame, Henry Gaunt, Frank Remick, C. H. Rogers, Alfred Newsholme, J. J. Flynn, George O. Marsh, John H. George and J. A. Hill.

W. Hamer then gave the treasurer's report which showed that there was more in the treasury than at the same time last year. The total receipts had been $362.60, and the expenditures $334.45, leaving a balance of $28.15. A solo was then rendered by T. Kellett. Archie N. Frost was then called upon and delivered a fine address, showing that he had a deep interest in the club and in sports in general. Geo. Nelson, whose talents are always in demand, and ever appreciated, rendered a solo. He was in turn followed by George G. Frederick with an address brief, but to the point. Another selection was rendered by the quartet, and John H. George was called upon. As usual he put the audience in still better humor than they were before, with one or two of his humorous stories.

The prizes awarded to the members of the club who excelled at the various branches of the game during the past year, were then awarded. The first prize for batting consisted of an umbrella from William Melton and a cash prize from the club, and the second prize for bowling, were given to W. Hamer. Joseph E. Buswell made the presentation in a neat speech. Mr. Hamer responded. The first fielding prize, a clock, was presented by Messrs. Frederick & Bower, went to James Hamer. This was presented by Karl M. Ebert. Mr. Hamer responded. The first bowling prize, a cash prize from the club, went to J. Wade. J. Frank Craven made the presentation speech. The second batting prize, an album, was won by James Tetley, who received it from the hands of Albert Lyles.

The averages made in the fielding and bowling are as follows:

"Do you represent a big house?" asked the traveler of the bishop.

"Biggest on earth," replied the bishop.

"What's the name of the firm?"

"Lord and Church."

"Hum! Lord and Church! Never heard of it. Got branch houses anywhere?"

"Branch houses all over the world."

"That's queer. Never heard of them. Is it boots and shoes?"

"No."

"Oh, dry goods, I suppose?"

"Yes, they call my sermons that sometimes."

It is told of another bishop that he was mistaken for a salesman and when asked what line he represented, replied, "spiritual."

"Is that so?" said his questioner, "but my what an awful price you've run gin up to."—Harper's Weekly.

"How far would you swim to save me if I were drowning, Mr. Hankinson?"

"Just far enough to reach you, Miss Kerflip."

"How far would you swim to save me if I were drowning, Mr. Pumpernickel?"

"I can't swim, I broke, Miss Kerflip, but I'd go after you with this boat and I'd have you out of the water before these chumps had got 20 feet from the shore."

"If I happen to be drowning, Mr. Pumpernickel, want you to come and save me."—Chicago Tribune.

HER SPELL.

What your spell of subtle art,
Lady, thus to win our heart?

Is it that your face is fair,
Your manners soft as summer air?

Is it that your voice's tone
Has a sweetness all its own?

Is it that your gentle mind
Know no thought that is unkind?

Is it that each living thing
Moves your heart to pitying?

Is it that each flower that blows
You for nature's lover knows?

Is it that within your eyes
Much of quiet wisdom lies?

Tell me, lady, what the spell
Wins us thus to love you well?

T. P. Johnson, in Chambers' Journal.

THE SCHOOL LUNCHEON.

To provide a wholesome variety for the school-luncheon takes the ingenuity of many a mother who finds it her business to cater to young boys and girls. Daintiness in all cases is the first essential. So far as the carrying case is concerned, the children themselves will have their own ideas. The boys invariably like the tin folding boxes, because they can be carried home in their pockets. The girls, always a bit more fastidious in their young days, are divided in opinion. Some critical misses declare that the tin boxes, because they exclude the air, get a "close smell," and that their opinion is not without foundation, as anyone who has ever carried luncheons daily can testify.

To be sure, if care is taken to wrap separately such odorous factors as cheese and pickles, much of the difficulty is removed, but bread and butter, even in the most toothsome sandwiches, leaves an odor in an air-tight box. The double Japanese baskets have been used for the purpose of late, but they are bulky. A good many children prefer the round paper candy boxes, which can be neatly wrapped in a paper. The best lining and cover for a box. For a basket, because it is more exposed to dust, it is better to use a napkin.

The paper, by the way, will be found to be much cheaper if bought in the large packages, which can be had at the department stores. The small fringed napkins are best suited for the luncheon, and may be folded and placed on top after it has been neatly covered with the paper. Better economy some other way in the work of the laundry and give the youngsters a clean napkin every day.

Many grownups make the mistake of thinking that a hungry child will eat anything, says the New York Tribune. Better economize some other way in the work of the laundry and give the youngsters a clean napkin every day.

For most girls it is best to remove the crust, cut the bread as thin as it can be spread well, and trim it into fancy shapes, diamonds narrow strips suited to small mouths, circles, etc. The crust can be set out with cookies and the fragments left can be employed in a hundred ways in the family menus. Occasionally, as a sort of surprise, the butter might be spread on the loaf, the bread cut very thin indeed, rolled and tied with a bit of ribbon. Especially if the child has not been showing her usual appetite, the novelty will be pretty apt to appeal to her agreeably.

THE WIDOW TAX.

Becoming a widower or widow is a much more serious business than getting married among some of the tribes in the Philippines. In Mindanao "marrying in haste" often leads to a prolonged "repenting at leisure," for they have an institution there known as the "widow tax." "Chabaloon" the native name for the tax, is the death of the wife the widower must pay a certain sum of money or its equivalent in goods to his father-in-law before he can go on a courting again. As money is a scarce article among these natives, the tax generally is paid in plates of silver. The natives, who are much used by the natives as a medium of exchange. It is considered the proper thing for the bereaved one to pay 100 of these plates to his father-in-law for permission to look about him for a successor to the deceased homemaker.

If the husband dies, the widow at once becomes the property of her parents-in-law and no remains for her unless some relative comes forward and produces the necessary number of silver plates. The natives, who are much used by the natives as a medium of exchange. It is considered the proper thing for the bereaved one to pay 100 of these plates to his father-in-law for permission to look about him for a successor to the deceased homemaker.

Divorce is unknown among these people, but a man may have as many wives as he pleases. It will be seen that in case of an epidemic which swept away his wives, a married man would be in dire extremity. In the case of a death of a much married man his parents come into a small fortune, for they either have enough slaves to render future work on their part unnecessary, or they receive enough plates from the families of the widows to set up a crockery store.

TEST FOR FORGERY.

A method has been devised by Prof. M. Bruylants, whereby the portion of a document which is suspected of having been altered is first moistened, and then, after being dried, is exposed to the action of vapor of iodine. The portion thus moistened, if it has been altered, assumes a violet tint, while the other portion appears a brownish yellow. This action is evidently due to the removal of a portion of the starch contained in the size of the paper. The same process will even reveal the existence of pencil marks erased by rubbing.

A FIENDISH ATTACK.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame that he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters, which effected such a wonderful change, that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Bliss's Drug Store.

GOT AHEAD OF THE OLD MAN.

"It was simply bulldozed luck," said the young man with the red shirt waist. Papa declared that it would be a warm day when he consented to my marrying his daughter, and I was a college boy, and the weather record had been broken several times after he had made that remark. I was beginning to lose hope. When all-the-world-to-me went on her vacation I went to the same place and put up at the same hotel. Now, papa's cold dog is an old blunder, and it made me tired—everybody else, too—the way he bragged about the fish he caught in former years.

"Finally someone hinted that it would be a good plan for him to make good and give us an example of his skill as a fisherman. He accepted the challenge and spent three days getting his tackle ready. He went alone, as he said he didn't want any greenhorns along, and we waited with baited breath for him to return.

"Now, I am something of a camera fiend, and in the afternoon I started out to take a picture of a little wooded dell when the shadows were well down. I was making my way to the road through some thick brush when I discovered my daddy-in-law-to-be standing in the middle of the road bargaining with a small boy for a long string of fish. Quick as a flash I took a snapshot of him just as he was holding on to his pocket with one hand and digging into it with the other.

"At the old man brag around the hotel for three days about the fish he had caught. Then I showed him the picture, told him if he didn't consent to my marrying his daughter I would spread it broadcast over the hotel, and pointed out where his reputation would be ruined. He wilted, gulped hard and surrendered. He isn't a bad sort who you know how to handle him."—Detroit Free Press.

SAVED BY A COLLIE DOG.

Mr. Robert Macdougall, one of the meteorologists at Ben Nevis observatory, had a most exciting experience when climbing that mountain one day. His only companion in the ascent was a collie dog, to whom he says he owes his life. When maneuvering on a snowfield about 1,000 feet above the half way station, Mr. Macdougall lost his footing, and as the surface of the snow was glazed and hard, he was soon being whirled down a gully at an alarming pace, sometimes a head foremost, at others the reverse.

It was at this juncture that the dog's sagacity came in. As soon as Mr. Macdougall began to slide it caught his coat with its teeth and greatly improved the downward progress. The dog ultimately guided him to a place of safety, after the twain had slid down on the snow for nearly 1,000 feet. Strange to say, neither observer nor dog was much hurt, and the former, breaking open the door of the half way hut, lit a fire. Here he was found by a search party half asleep with the dog watching over him.—Westminster Gazette.

"Don't think I'm goin' ter put you on ter my private mud puddle."—New York Journal.

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—

That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ida E. Ward, Cove Point, Md.

FROM THE "AMEN" CORNER.

You say the hymns is doggerel—that they ain't refined enough; That all the time we've sung 'em they've been nothin' else but stuff; You say they need revisin'—we must make 'em more polite; "On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand" is not constructed right; But, just the same, Perfection Triggs, you'd better let 'em be— The Lord—He understand 'em, so they're good enough for me.

F's'pose there's nothin' finer than that good old "Beulah Land." And when our Lizzie sings it you can see the glories grand; When "Rock of Ages" rings out from the hallelujah shore, I tell you this old sinner ain't a-goin' to drift no more; And when they strike "Amazing Grace," each feller singin' free— The Lord—He understands it, so it's good enough for me.

It isn't what you're singin'—why, I oftentimes forget And praise the Lord to music with the good old alphabet, Until I strike the words again, and I don't think it's wrong; It isn't what is in it, but the soul behind the song. So, I tell you, Perfection Triggs, you'd better let 'em be— The Lord—He understands 'em, so they're good enough for me. —Josh Wink, in Baltimore American.

Mrs. Newlywed—I'm sorry, love, but the cakes did get just a little burned this morning. Newlywed—(reassuredly)—Never mind, my dear; assure you that taste just like those my mother used to burn. —Brooklyn Eagle.

In Control of Impulse.

The impulsiveness of a public gathering was never better illustrated than at the meeting in the town hall last Monday evening. In the twinkling of an eye, almost before the people had assembled, a motion to "indefinitely postpone" had been put and carried, disposing, without a particle of debate, of every item on the warrant. A later motion to reconsider the action regarding an appropriation for maintenance of public works was carried, and with even greater unanimity than that which marked the original opposition, the sum desired was voted.

There is food for very serious reflection in such meetings as that of last Monday, and from the tone of conversation since that time it would appear that such reflection is being generally indulged in. That there was a vote which defeated a special appropriation for the work of repairing Main street, is of very little importance compared to the way in which that vote was taken. Probably there were not a score of people in Andover who expected any other action, as the final result, and very likely hardly any more than that number desired anything different, but many did desire a full and free discussion of the questions presented before such disposal.

It counts for nothing to say that they could have voted against the motion had they wished for any other action, as it is abundantly proven by the minute-and-a-quarter-consumption upon the public works appropriation. It must be attributed solely to the headless impulsiveness which marks so much public action, and as such, it is a dangerous condition. There is never anything lost by careful consideration and full discussion of matters of public concern. In this case the town's chief public servants had found themselves confronted by a problem which the citizens alone had the power to settle properly. They apparently had no axes to grind, and no ends to gain, excepting the end that should satisfy the majority of the citizens. As the selection of the town they had investigated the situation and were prepared to give the result of their investigation to the voters. They were shown not even the scant courtesy afforded the criminal, and the citizens are the chief losers thereby.

With a statement from the selectmen a general discussion by those who had ideas upon the subject, and then a final vote to defer action until the regular meeting, the very important matter of repair on Main street would have come up next March before a body well fitted to discuss and adjust it.

We believe it cannot be stated too positively that the great need in every community is a better and more general knowledge regarding public matters. Such knowledge cannot come from the kind of public meetings as that which was held last Monday evening.

Editorial Cinders.

"To err is human, to forgive divine," and we have been forgiven so fully for the careless omission of the Guide dress-making notice from last week's issue, we cannot do enough to make amends this week. May we emphasize it here again, so that wide announcement may make up for short notice—that a class in dressmaking is forming at the Guide and prompt application is the one present important factor in starting that class.

The owners of the Richardson estate on Main street, have definitely requested the selectmen to remove the tree which has been the subject of so much comment for the past few weeks, and it will come down. That a little more of wall, so sweet and kindly, will be a corresponding welcome elsewhere.

There seems to be a reaction in the political field in favor of republican sentiment, and a candidate from that party seems to be still in the lead, owing to the fact of his defeated republican rival, the worth and merit of the man himself is apparently turning the tide. He deserves a running election.

Andover Grange Holds Successful Fair
in the Town Hall.

Last evening brought about the opening of the annual fair of the Andover Grange, No. 185, P. of H., at the Town hall, and as usual, the Grangers were favored with a good patronage.

The fair was arranged by the Women's club of the Grange which is surely enough for its success and desirability, as whatever they undertake is always sure to be done well. Mrs. Milo H. Gould, president of the club, was in general oversight of the arrangements. Of course, there are the customary number of booths, rather more than usual perhaps, and some a little out of the ordinary. These stretch along the sides of the hall, with one or two in the center or down by the stage in front. Each booth has been carefully trimmed by the committee having it in charge and some of the effects obtained are especially pretty.

On the right of the entrance is the supper room, curtained off by bunting. Here B. Frank Smith is in charge of a corps of courteous waiters. But his work would go for naught were the skillful ministrations of the chef, S. H. Bailey, with his assistants, Fred M. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. John Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Frank Foster and Milo Gould, left out of the reckoning.

There are the usual number of guessing contests, that of the length of the pole for the carrying set donated by Treat Hardware company; number of seeds in squash for the table full of vegetables; number of beans in bottle for the pair of blankets donated by Byron Truell; length of crooked stick for a pair of shoes given by Benjamin Brown; number of seeds in squash for pair of slippers given by George Woodman; and the number of the lucky ticket for the clock donated by J. E. Whiting.

The program consisted of a series of pictures given by Miss Ada Belle Crockett, entitled the "Language of the Flag," and several readings. Miss Crockett won the well merited applause of the audience by her sketches, "Boy's Courtship," and "The Christian Science Convert." But in her tableaux, "The Language of the Flag," Miss Crockett was very effective. The posturing in dress costume, with the play of the flashing sword, the graceful movements of the flag as the calcium light shone upon the artist, causing the figure to stand out sharply against the black background, was a picture that will linger long in the remembrance of those who saw it. The tableaux were given to a musical accompaniment.

The tables with their colors and attendants are as follows:
Vegetables—E. W. Burt, Nathan R. Bailey, Asa Gould, J. J. Abbott.
Canned fruit—White—Mrs. J. H. Chandler, Mrs. Henry C. Flint, Mrs. George Goldsmith.
Apron table, blue and white canopy—Mrs. James Gillett, Mrs. Edward Abbott, Mrs. Daniel Pitts.

Fancy table, long canopy in red and white—Miss Bertha Chandler, Mrs. F. M. Hill, Mrs. Frank Foster.
Jack Horner pie table, yellow and white—Mrs. E. Edward Boutwell, Mrs. Nathan Bailey.

Cake table, yellow and white canopy—Mrs. Walter Coleman, Mrs. Ira Hill, Mrs. George Burnham.
Mystery table, pink and white—Mrs. John Merrill, Mrs. Edward Burt.

Remembrance table, pink—Miss Charlotte Hill, Albert Hardy.
China table, green and white—Mrs. Nathan Perkins, Mrs. J. Warren Moore, Miss McKinley.

Flower table, yellow and white—J. B. Flaydon, Mrs. George L. Averill, Miss Fannie French.
Grab-bag—Miss Alma Bailey, Miss Agnes Gillett.

Home made candy, lavender and white—Mrs. Asa Gould, Miss Alice Gould, Miss Lucy Carter.
Collectionary table, blue and white—Miss Clara Putnam, Miss Lucia Burt.

Art table, pink and white—Miss Ethel Coleman, Miss Lulu Abbott.
Peanut stand, blue and white—James Abbott, Ralph Bailey.
Shooting gallery—B. F. Smith, Jr.
Clunk room—James Grosvenor, Fred Gould.

This afternoon, the fair opened at 8 o'clock and will continue until late in the evening. Music will be furnished by the Andover orchestra tonight.

Grange Fair Echoes.

Get your supper at the Fair, you can get it especially good one.

No poultry exhibit this year, too early in the season.

The booths, everyone of them, are very prettily decorated, showing considerable artistic taste.

Those "Jack Horner" pies are something new in Andover, are they not?

How are you guessing? The pole and crooked stick are actually deceptive things to guess on, and as for trying to figure out the number of beans in a bottle or seeds in a squash, well—

At the Burns Club.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Andover Burns Club, held last Saturday evening, was a great success, the attraction being a lecture by John Alden, on "The Greatest Triumph of Modern Chemistry," a subject with which the lecturer is very familiar, and which he treats in a very intelligent and instructive manner. Mr. Alden had many specimens of the chemical products of coal—the source of his lecture—before him; these he explained in detail, telling how one was the extract of another, or the result of a combination of several others, closing his highly instructive lecture with an enthusiastic reference to the prediction of Indigo, as the great triumph of modern chemistry.

After the lecture, Mr. Alden kindly permitted the students to examine and smell, but with a sky limit, not to taste the many interesting specimens, much to the satisfaction and delight of the large representation of members and friends present, and in a pleasant way answered many questions, put by the more interested portion of those present. When the examining and smelling was over, Mr. Alden was awarded a rising vote of thanks, and the meeting was adjourned.

Alvin E. Tough with his photograph, and John Putnam with his mandolin, will furnish the entertainment for the next meeting.

Zinc and grinding.

Special Town Meeting.

The special town meeting held in the town hall Monday evening was well attended, altho' there was a misunderstanding as to what time the meeting was to be held so that many substantial citizens did not reach the hall until the business, which was rushed through at railroad speed, was practically over.

Evidently the sentiment of the citizens was much opposed to any appropriations being made at a special town meeting as shown by the summary manner in which the articles calling for money were disposed of.

The meeting opened at 7 o'clock and Judge Poor was chosen as moderator. Town Clerk Mariand acted as secretary and the selectmen as checkers.

Articles Two and Three were brought up and it was moved in each case that they be indefinitely postponed without anything for or against being said. Article Two called for an appropriation of $2,500 for macadamizing the west side of Main street and Article Three for the putting in of an sewer drain or storm sewer at an expenditure of $2,500, the sewer to run from School street to Rogers brook.

Article Four asked for an appropriation of $1000 for the maintenance of the Board of Public Works department. John H. Flint explained why this sum is desired, calling attention to the extra expenses incurred by the department owing to the bad condition of the town water, necessitating the employment of a diver, construction of filter bed, etc.

Charles W. Clark asked questions of Mr. Flint in regard to what the money was to be used for and was answered in substance about as Mr. Flint had explained previously.

The motion to appropriate was not at first carried. John L. Smith made an added explanation and it was voted to reconsider.

Then the motion "that the sum of $1000 be appropriated for the maintenance of the Board of Public Works and that the Town Treasurer be authorized to turn over the sum from the receipts of the Water department," was carried.

There being no further business, the meeting then adjourned.

King's Daughters Convention.

It is always interesting to know something about the life and work of men who are coming to the front among the world's workers, and as Mr. McNutt, who is to speak at the King's Daughters convention, Nov. 2, is such a man, we again ask the Townsman for the favor of the insertion of the following incident in his life. The town of Alexandria, in Indiana, has a pay-roll of $35,000 a week, but there is not one place, aside from a saloon, where a man or boy may spend his evenings. Mr. McNutt quickly decided they must have a club house, and after securing a plot of ground in the center of the Polish, Irish and Italian settlements, he began casting about for materials for the house. After the day's work, he and his fourteen year old son gathered cobblestones from the road-side. Then they collected dry goods boxes, and extracted the nails and straightened barrel staves to use for shingles and wainscoting. Slowly they built. A picturesque little cottage, costing exactly $80 in money, was the result.

The walls up to the low eaves are formed of cobblestones set in mortar and the roof is made of barrel stave shingles and pebbles, the size of hens' eggs set in cement. The finishing of the interior is even more ingenious. The woodwork and ceiling are painted a delicate shade and in each panel of the ceiling Mr. McNutt has put the bright colored picture of some bird. The three rooms of the house are separated by pillars and the fireplace is of broken bottles, while the book shelves and much of the furniture of this unique club house are made of saplings with the bark on. Altogether it is a work of art and ingenuity and well adapted to the purpose to which it was dedicated a year ago. The factory boys are taking great pride in their home and when the shelves are filled with books and its table with literature, it will be a real home to them. Mr. McNutt conducts a four day's Social Service conference at Berkeley Temple, Boston, next week and a similar conference in New Hampshire early in November.

The executive committee, Mrs. H. E. Carruth, chairman, was instrumental in arranging the affair which was much more successful than was anticipated. A goodly sum of money was realized.

NOTE:— Having purchased the Mansion House Stables, I have a number of horses and carriages for sale at reasonable prices as I have now more than necessary for my business.

Proper Picture Frames

If all frames were alike it would not matter where you had them made. But they are not all alike. There is as much difference as there is in the people that order them. Our frames are not only low in price, but they are artistic in make-up and give proper effect to the picture. It wouldn't be a bad idea to give us a chance to show you how "different" ours are from the other fellows.

Big Sale at the "Big Store."

The Andover people are rapidly learning what is meant by the "Big Store," and when any announcement is made of a feature at this big shopping place, they are quick to take advantage of it. Reid & Hughes have made Lawrence a shopping place more than any other firm and they are reaping the well merited fruits of such work. This week, their announcement is of more than ordinary interest and deserves careful reading.

IN MEMORIAM.

Minutes Adopted Unanimously by the Trustees of Phillips Academy, October 14, 1901.

The Trustees of Phillips Academy desire to make expression of their regard for Rev. Cecil F. P. Bancroft, L. H. D., L. L. D., Principal of Phillips Academy. After many years of distinguished service he rests from his labors.

His administration of the interests of the Academy has been eminently successful. By large ability and discretion he so fulfilled the varied duties of his office that he has readily commanded the confidence of those associated with him, and the respect and grateful affection of the thousands of boys who have been under his care. He has kept the school in its high place before the colleges and the world. He will always and everywhere be named with honor.

He has been of most valuable service as a trustee. In addition to his inherent wisdom, it has been of special advantage that, through having his home at Andover, he has been in intimate relations with all which concerns the Theological Seminary as well as the academy, so that his close sympathy with the institutions, his accurate knowledge and sound judgment, have been of inestimable worth.

Beyond all which was official he has endeared himself to those who stood with him by his fine qualities of heart, his unalterable courtesy, his constant courage and patience, his cheerfulness and hopefulness, and the full measure of his friendliness.

Every thought of him is pleasant. His work will abide and his memory be an encouragement to fidelity. He has gained the blessing which belongs to him who has lived in the love of God and the service of men.

In Memoriam.

At the annual meeting on Oct. 15, of the Board of Managers of the Andover Home for the Aged, it was voted to give expression to their keen sense of loss in the recent removal from their number by death of Dr. Bancroft who had been associated with the movement from the start, being one of the charter members.

His cordial sympathy with the object, his faithful devotion to it, his quick insight, his wise suggestions, and above all his unflinching optimism as to the final success of the cause, when discouragement attended the long waiting, all served to make him a valued, honored, beloved member of the board.

May we not believe that from his higher plane of activity he can still serve as guardian spirit over our further deliberations, inspiring others to right action with his clearer sighted vision?

"Thou sweet
As year by year we lose
Friends out of sight to muse
How grows in Paradise our store."

Obituary.

MISS MARY BOYNTON.

Miss Mary Boynton, one of Andover's oldest residents, died at her home in the Osgood district, last Monday afternoon.

Miss Boynton was born eighty years ago within an eighth of a mile of the house in which she died and sixty years ago she moved from her birthplace to the house which has since been her home. She had never married but had been content to make a home for her younger brother. She leaves, besides the brother Henry with whom she had lived so long, a brother-in-law, three nieces and a nephew, all of whom mourn the loss of a quiet, unassuming, devoted friend.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the residence of Henry Boynton and was conducted by the pastor of the West church, of which Miss Boynton had been a member for many years.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions on the death of the late Robert Cuthill, which occurred Friday, Sept. 27, 1901, were adopted by the Burns club at the meeting of Oct. 19, 1901:

Whereas, The late Robert Cuthill, a member of this club, has been removed from our midst by death, it is

Resolved: That by his death we have lost a valuable member, who by the kindly interest he took in all that pertained to the best interests of the club had won our esteem and admiration.

Resolved: That the sympathy of this club be conveyed to the family of our deceased fellow member, committing them, in this their hour of bereavement, to the kindly consolations of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions, suitably engrossed, and signed by the president and secretary of this club, be transmitted to the family of the late Robert Cuthill.

Resolved: That these resolutions be spread on the records of this club.

She Understood.

"Excuse me," he said to the applicant for the typewriter's position, "but I would like to know your age?"

"The young woman looked astonished. 'May I ask what that has to do with my fitness for the place?' she inquired.

"Nothing," he promptly answered. "You see, it's my wife that wants to know."

"In that case," said the applicant, who was pretty as well as young, "tell her I am 47."

And the smile that followed this ingenious statement, brought out four delightful dimples.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Modern Improvements.

"Thou wall, O wall, O sweet and lovely wall," —A Midsummer Night's Dream.

In respect that it is a wall it is a good wall; but in respect that it is not trees it is tedious, it is naught.

As I pick my way around the battlefield I call to mind a certain ancient city, of not altogether blessed memory, concerning which it is written: "Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou also destroy and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?" "I will not destroy it, for ten's sake." But in these days of majorities the ten righteous (if peradventure there be found ten righteous) are forced to the wall.

Our new mural decorations are hopelessly ready-made, commonplace and—progressive. That is, if one may judge by that small portion of the "good work" which patience has as yet perfected. It would almost do justice to one of the delicious bits of fine art criticism by which Thackeray immortalized the pen of "F. B.": "A splendid symmetrical figure and great facial advantages." Within these advantages are immured the abutters, helpless, stranded, high and dry.

For this strip of icy regularity, yea, twenty rods of it, we have seen bartered away the springing, sweeping, awaying lines of beauty and the joys of shifting color with which the dear old trees blessed us.

For this, I say, since there seems to have been no other value received: Still the crowded Lawrence cars must, like the king of France and his army in the old rhyme, "march up the hill and then—march down again." Still the "twice ten thousand men" are left to wait and look,—let us change the allusion,—look longingly towards the promised land, whence, perchance, no car cometh. What has become of a certain "imperative necessity?" Can it have ceased to exist as soon as capital and labor provided the means of meeting it?

ONE OF THOSE WHO PASS BY ON THE OTHER SIDE.

Joseph Myerscough had two fingers cut off while coupling cars on the freight train at Lawrence, Wednesday night.

The Central football eleven of this place will meet the North Andovers at the latter place Saturday afternoon.

About 25 academy students saw Mary Manning in "Janice Meredith" at the Lawrence opera house last evening.

No session of the public schools will be held next Friday owing to the Teachers' convention to be held at Lawrence.

A meeting of the members of the Essex Agricultural society will be held at the Town hall, Andover, Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, 1901, at 7.30, to choose a trustee of the society for the coming year.

The Mothers' club will meet Friday, Nov. 1, at 8.30 p. m. in the new kindergarten-room. Miss Mary F. Leland, of Cambridge, will give a story talk. Miss Leland will be remembered as one of the first Andover kindergarten teachers and she is sure to be cordially welcomed by many old friends.

The Registry of Deeds bears the record this week, of a transfer from Paul Hannegan to Mrs. Fannie S. Smith, of all the property on Main street in Frye village owned by the latter and running North from the old canal. Mr. Hannegan retains the little store building and the pond and water privilege.

The committee having in charge the Cuthill Benefit Concert on Nov. 1, have requested the local lodge of Pilgrims to postpone their dance scheduled for the same evening. No action has as yet been taken but as this is a benefit concert for a worthy charity, it is reasonable to suppose that they will comply, at least the Committee hope so.

When the Moon Shines.

"My boy," said the old man kindly, as he poked his head through the back parlor doorway about 11 p. m., where his prospective son-in-law, Charles, sat courting Eliza, with the gas turned on full force, "are you aware that the moon is shining brightly this evening? Just see," and the old man turned the gas out. "Just observe, my boy, how the moon's yellow rays light up this room. Truly, it is a glorious spectacle. But come with me a moment: I have something in the cellar which I want to show you."

Then the old man took his bullseye lantern and led the way down the cellar stairs closely followed by Charles. "My boy," said he, softly, as they reached the cellar, "I know you love Eliza with all the strength of your little heart, and you love to meet her often, and let me say that I have no objection whatever to your doing so; I simply request your presence in this cellar that I might give you a much-needed and useful lesson in economy. Observe young man, the little box over in that corner. Here he turned the light of his bullseye upon it. "Well, that's a gas meter, and every time that little pointed whirle around the space of that dial it means $1 nearer the workhouse for me."

"That's all, Charles. Now we will ascend, and hereafter when the moon is shining you will not forget my lesson in economy, will you? Remember my boy, to meet her by moonlight costs nothing, but to meet her by gaslight is quite another affair. Good night, Charles. The moon is still shining brightly, I see."

Then the old man skipped blithely up the back stairs to bed.—Grand Rapids Herald.

A BAD FALL.

Margaret Mahar, who is employed at the residence of L. E. Barnes on River street met with quite a bad accident one night recently. She had been to Washington square and on her way home decided to take a short cut across the railroad track, and over the coal pile to the back door. It was very dark and instead of stepping from the track upon the coal as she expected, she stepped into an empty coal pocket, falling about 12 feet to the ground. She managed to crawl from where she fell to the fence near the house, where she lay for about an hour, until found by Mr. Doran, who took her to the house. She was badly bruised and shaken up but fortunately no bones were broken.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

Wednesday night the Arlington Male quartet of Haverhill, assisted by Miss Mildred Murray, reader, gave a concert at Nevins Memorial hall. A small, but appreciative audience was present. Those who attended the concert were well repaid, for it was one of the finest given in town for some time. The slim attendance was doubtless due to the fact that the quartet is not well known in town, and that the concert was not extensively advertised. Had it been known what was to be expected, the hall would have been well filled.

The quartet was composed of C. E. Morrison, tenor; A. T. Jacobs, baritone; N. I. Osgood, tenor; F. A. Crowell, bass. Maud Ford Morrison, accompanist. The voices blended perfectly, and the effect was very pleasing. Each number on the program was heartily applauded and encore demanded. Miss Murray proved herself a most entertaining reader, and a master of her art. The program followed: "Comrades in Arms," Adam Quartet.

A TYPICAL SOUTH AFRICAN STORE.

O. R. Larson of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railroad station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town.

Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record."

The latest issue of "The Journal of Sociology," published by the University of Chicago Press contains a review of the thesis of Rev. E. E. Ayers written for his degree of Ph. D. from Berlin University. The subject of the thesis is "Labor Insurance and Charity," and it goes on to prove that labor insurance takes the burden from charity. The review of the book was written by James H. Hamilton of Syracuse University.

The subject of E. E. Ayers' sermon for the morning service at the Methodist church Sunday was "True Self-Measurement." The text is "Study to Show Thyself Approved of God." A workman that need not be ashamed of his trade. He referred first to the false methods of self-measurement, such as by popularity, success, and education; all these are of little use without a religious and moral basis, but with religious and moral basis they are the truest mode of self-measuring up.

A large crowd of voters will accompany the Blue Stockings eleven to Haverhill Friday, the game with Haverhill high is looked upon as the game of the season.

The makeup of the Merrimack Grammar school eleven which is given, shows itself to be a very strong team, which will contend with any eleven in its range of age and weight. The lineup: James Frye center, Leon Hamilton quarter back, Lawrence Carey right half back, Charles Taylor full back, Stormont Joseph left half back, James Hargreaves right end, John Donnelly right tackle, Alvin Styles right guard, Harold Tilton left guard, Daniel McCarthy left tackle, Fred Barrington left end, Charles Hill first sub, Fred Morton, second sub, Fred Dickey third sub, Leon Hamilton has been elected captain and Stormont Joseph manager.

Petition.

A petition signed by property owners along the old railroad tracks and on good streets has been received by the selectmen requesting a special "town meeting" to instruct the selectmen relative certain matters. This is evidently the result of the promotion of the Haverhill and Andover road scheme of last year seeking further favors at the hands of the town after having failed to redeem fair promises and agreements made when the acquiesced franchise rights, and the stock of which company it is now believed by many to have been "absorbed" by the Boston and Northern or some other company.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen of the Town of North Andover:

We, the subscribers, citizens of said town, respectfully petition your honorable board to call a special meeting of the voters of the town to act upon the following matter:

To see if the town will vote to instruct the selectmen not to grant any further franchise to the Haverhill and Andover street railway company until such time as the Haverhill and Andover street railway company have built and equipped a street railway through the town along Railroad street and up Sutton street to the Haverhill line according to the terms of a route laid down in a certain franchise given by the selectmen to said Haverhill and Andover street railway company, which said franchise provided that said street railway should be built and equipped within a certain time, but which now remains unfinished.

And further, to see if the town will instruct the selectmen not to grant any further franchise to the Boston and Northern street railway company, which said company is said to control said Haverhill and Andover street railway company until said street railway company has built and equipped said street railway on said Railroad and Sutton streets, in said town, as above set forth in this petition.

Respectfully submitted:

The makeup of the team is: Francis Driver centre, Myrtle Hollowell right guard, Sadie Stoddard left guard, Maud White forward, Helen Stevens right forward, subs, Beatrice Murphy and Ena Stuart. Frances Driver has been elected captain and Sadie Stone manager.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

A pretty autumnal wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. The contracting parties were Harry C. Foster and Grace A. Farnham; they were unattended. The ceremony took place at Walnut Farm, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seth T. Farnham, which was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, flowers and ferns for the occasion.

The wedding procession was ushered in by Walter L. Carney and Wilbur Ward, two close friends of both the bride and bridegroom. The bride was beautifully gowned in white brocaded silk with white chiffon and liberty silk trimmings. She carried a hand bouquet of white roses and white lilies were deftly fastened in her hair. After the ceremony a reception was given to the relatives and friends of the wedded couple.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, among which were silver, cut glass, bric-a-brac and useful articles.

Relatives and friends were present from Boston, Revere, Chelsea, Lynn, Salem, Andover, Lawrence, and from town.

After a short wedding tour the happy couple will be at home to their friends at their residence, the Johnson home, instead after November 15th.

BLUE STOCKINGS 23; TIGERS 0.

The Blues walked away with the Tigers of Andover Saturday afternoon on the Tavern lot. The defensive play of Tigers was poor and this together with the looseness of team play showed up as the weak points of Andover's play. The Tigers only had the ball once in the second half, and then they kicked immediately.

The Blues did well with Kelley at quarter, making long gains easily. The star play of the game was a touchdown made by Smith in the second half from the kick-off.

The ball was caught by Johnson and on a cross pass play, Smith carried the ball the length of the field, past his opponents for a touchdown.

Touchdowns were made by Smith 2, Gossage and Hargreaves. Elements kicked three goals for touchdowns. Length of halves—2 20-minute halves.

The officials of the game were: Chas. Drew referee, Flannery umpire, George Willey and McMullen timekeepers.

OPEN MEETING OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

Quite a number of people were present at the open meeting of the Good Templars held in Odd Fellows hall Friday evening.

The first number on the program was a vocal solo by Miss Graham of Haverhill, accompanied by Mrs. Farley. Rev. E. E. Ayers, chairman of the meeting, introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Nathan Bailey of the First Baptist church of Methuen. He spoke of him as an old friend, with whom he was very intimately acquainted in former years.

He spoke on the subject of temperance in its relation to the state and its only stronghold, "the rising generation." Mr. Bailey is a very effective speaker, holding his audience with his power of speech.

Those who occupied the platform were, Chairman Rev. E. E. Ayers, Rev. Nathan Bailey, Chief Templars, James M. Craig, Lodge Deputy Myra K. Spear of Lawrence, Alfred Williams, chief templar of Longfellow lodge of Haverhill, and Secretary Miss Edna Hale.

After the meeting a good social time was in order and coffee and cake were served. There were 12 Templars present from Haverhill lodge.

The committee in charge of the meeting was Rev. E. E. Ayers, chairman; Miss Edna Hale and Bertha Hayes. Mrs. William Bottomley had charge of the refreshments.

A Few Reflections

A REFLECTION IN WINTER.
How nice it is to take one's ease.
Your hammock swung beneath the trees,
Be visited by birds and bees,
(Ne'er by a plumber).
See petals fall instead of snow.
While gentle zephyrs softly blow.
To lie and watch the green things grow.
In summer.

A REFLECTION IN SUMMER.
How nice it is in December nights
To watch the blackbirds' dancing lights
And see the nimble fire sprites
Leap (twig and plumber).
To sit within the chimney nook
Upon your face contentment's look
And read your best-beloved book
In winter.

A DEDUCTIVE REFLECTION.
How nice 'twould be if 'twere our lot
To have it snow or have it not
And with the seasons, cold or hot,
To just phlander.
To see the leaves and flowers grow
Would be almost supernal bliss.
And joy complete, I say all this
In canfor.

Burns on a Good Wife's Qualities

The poet Burns speaking of the qualities of a good wife, divided them into ten parts. Four of these he gave to good temper, two to good sense, one to wit, one to beauty, and the other two parts he divided among the other qualities belonging to or attending a wife—such as fortune, connections, education, family, blood, etc. It is quite right to attach this much importance to temper when choosing a wife. Sir David Baird and other British officers were taken prisoners by Tipu Sahib and confined in his dungeons at Seringapatam. The old mother of Sir David when she heard the news in Scotland, referring to the days and nights he had spent in those dungeons and also to the well known temper of her son exclaimed: "God pity the ladies tied to our Davie."

It is indeed, an unfortunate thing for any man to be tied by the matrimonial to a woman with a temper. Burns was also right to put good sense before beauty, for though a man may not miss brains in a flatterer, regularly featured doll is courting days, when he is being plied with flattery, he will before many months of married life pass learn that a foolish woman is her husband's continual disgrace, and that there is "nothing more fulsome than a shrew." Some one said to Dr. Johnson that it would be a privilege to be near a certain good and worthy, but foolish woman in heaven. "I would never like to be near a fool anywhere," roared the doctor.

ORIGIN OF THE SANDWICH.

How many persons who daily eat sandwiches are aware that it is an ancestor of the East who first put that popular form of food to rest?

The story runs that the earliest mention was very fond of playing cards, and in order to prevent having to stop to eat he used to have a slice of meat put between two slices of bread and eat these as he played. This got to be called a "sandwich" but gradually the inverted commas were dropped as the word became an accepted one in the language.

The present earl became colonel of the Grenadier guards in 1831. He was once military secretary of Gibraltar, and has been attached to special embassies to various capitals of Europe.
